

THE CENTER FOR THE STUDY OF RELIGION AND CONFLICT

UNDERGRADUATE CERTIFICATE IN RELIGION AND CONFLICT

Overview

Religion has played a crucial role in various forms of human conflict—historically and in our own times. The nature of that role, however, varies significantly, as religion provides contexts for division and war as well as for unity and peace. ASU's new Undergraduate Certificate in Religion and Conflict provides students a broad, interdisciplinary understanding of the dynamics of religion, conflict and peace by exploring questions such as these: What are the religious and non-religious causes of conflict or factors that contribute to it? What do we mean by the term "religious violence"? What secular and religious resources exist for resolving different kinds of conflict?

The certificate is open to students in any major, and may be of particular interest to students pursuing careers in journalism, law, policy work, diplomacy, the military, public advocacy, publishing, education, ministry or other fields in which an enhanced understanding of religion and conflict is increasingly vital.

Eligibility

Any ASU undergraduate enrolled in a degree program may pursue the Religion and Conflict Certificate. A minimum grade of "C" is required for a course to fulfill a certificate requirement.

Certificate Registration & Information

For more information or to register for the certificate, see csrc.asu.edu/students or contact the certificate director, Prof. John Carlson, at john.carlson@asu.edu.

Certificate Requirements

Students must complete 18 credit hours of qualifying course work (at least 12 hours from ASU), consisting of regional, political, and cultural components.

To ensure that students are exposed to a wide variety of approaches to the study of religion and conflict, an interdisciplinary component requires that at least 6 of the 18 hours be filled with courses from the Humanities and at least 3 hours from the Social Sciences.

In many cases, the same course can be used to fulfill several requirements simultaneously.

1. Regional component (6 hours)

Courses in this category provide students specific regional knowledge of how religion has been implicated in human conflict. Required coursework in at least 2 different regions fosters a comparative understanding of the dynamics of religion and conflict in historical and global contexts.

2. Political component (3 hours)

Courses in this category explore how religion influences—or is influenced by—matters of state, law, government, or other dimensions of political life.

3. Cultural component (3 hours)

Courses in this category provide students with an understanding of how religion operates as a powerful force that impacts and intersects with expressions of human identity, thought and culture.

4. Electives (6 hours)

Any approved/qualifying course may be used as an elective to fulfill remaining requirements toward the total number of credit hours and to meet the interdisciplinary requirement.

*INTERDISCIPLINARY REQUIREMENT

Of the 18 total credits taken to fulfill the certificate, at least 3 credits from the Social Sciences (SOC, POS, SGS or WST, noted with an "*" ) and 6 credits from the Humanities (ARB, HST, POR or REL). The interdisciplinary requirement can be met through any course listed on this sheet except GCU 328.
